U.S. Railroad Contract Mail Routes (1832-1875)

The Collectors Club of Chicago announces the publication of the thirty-second handbook in their series of specialized philatelic literature: U.S. Contract Mail Routes by Railroad (1832 – 1875) by Hugh V. Feldman RPSL.

This book presents the development of the early railroads in a historical context focusing on the establishment, routes and the cities and towns served as it relates the philatelic information. The mail contract route information is presented in a well-organized manner including dates, route numbers, contract agreement and cost per mile. The arrangement is by state accompanied by charts, copies of detailed maps locating town and a detailed list of the stations served on the various mail contracts.

The mail contracts normally have the individual stops and dates thus one may be able to bracket in time when a specific station was in use.

This book runs 1,096 pages. in full color, hard bound, dust jacket, illustrates 242 covers, 582 maps and 360 other images. A DVD is included containing over 800 covers, many are not illustrated in the book; PMG annual reports and other reports to Congress between 1817 and 1878. Also included are images of the manuscript Railroad Contracts by States, 6,773 in all. We think these contracts have never been reproduced before.

Additional philatelic information is presented through the many covers included in the text that were carried by railroads in each respective state. These are described in detail and the appropriate references are included to assist philatelists in their research.
